

YOU'VE HEARD IT SAID

LifeGroups

Key things you heard

- We heard different perspectives from four singles on dating in 2020. We learned boundaries are incredibly important, but it's not just about sex.
- You need spiritual boundaries, emotional boundaries, and physical boundaries.
- It's okay to stop putting so much pressure on first dates. Take it slow and don't expect someone else to meet all your expectations.
- Your relationship status doesn't define you.

Pray: God, help me find my identity in You alone. Give me wisdom as I navigate relationships in a way that honors You and others. Show me what boundaries are wise, and give me the courage to set them and live them out. I trust You. In Jesus' name, amen.

Tweetable Moments

- 🐦 Singleness is not a setback. Whether you're single, dating, or married, you are enough because God is enough.
- 🐦 Only Jesus can fulfill your deepest desire to be seen, known, and loved.

Say What? Questions for conversation

Icebreaker: What's the best and worst dating advice you've ever received?

- What was your favorite part of the conversation and why?
- What boundaries do you have for yourself in relationships? How did you decide on them?
- Whether you're single, dating, or married, what is one thing God is showing you about your current season of life?
- Play your own version of agree/disagree as a LifeGroup. I view singleness as a gift. I have a list of what I want in someone. It's easy to know what boundaries to set. I feel valued as a single person in Christian circles.
- Read Philippians 2:3. How can you apply this mindset to all of your relationships?

Now Go Do It Resources and next steps

Challenge: If you're single, choose one way to invest in your relationship with God. If you're dating or married, decide on one thing you'll both do to draw closer to God.
